Sorewsteamers, with good accommodations for par-songers, leave the different transportation docks ev-ry day for Buffalo. The Election. We give, this morning, all the returns that have reached us, of the Election in this State, vesterday. If the rest of the State has done as well as those portions from which we have heard, we see no reason to doubt the election of the entire Republican ticket, by a handsome majority. The City and County of Milwaukee have exceeded our expectations. And the "Rural Districts" come in gloriously! Look at

The Vote tu Milwankee. As will be seen from the returns we publish this morning the Democratic majority in this city is some one hundred less than Mr. Choss had two years ago. The election, though sharply contested, was entirely peaceable, and we heard of no breach of the peace during the day. The Democratic majority was far short of what they anticipated. We have elected two, and we hope, three Republican Assemblymen from this county. As to Senator, the chances are in favor of Mr. EGAN.

Two Hundred Thousand Bushels of Grain Destroyed.

The N. Y. Central Railroad Elevator at Buffalo, containing upwards of two hundred thousand hushels of wheat, was burned yesterday, and its contents totally destroyed .--Loss on the building $50,000, is insured .-The grain destroyed was valued at $200,000, and was, it is said, fully insured.

much. The road was but just finished, and the fencing of it was going on as fast as practicable; yet on Railroads that are fenced, it is a common thing to see cattle within the enclosure of the track, especially in the western country. When the great principle shall be established in Wisconsin, as in England and some of the Eastern States, that fences shall be to hold animals in, and not to keep them out, so that every man shall be held more strictly accountable for the damage done by his beast in running at large, a horrible slaughter of human beings like this, will not pass with the verdict that no one is to blame. Any one who has observed the action of the law in England, in cases of Railroad disasters, will believe that had this occurred in that country, the ewner of the bullock that threw the locomotive from the track, would not go unpunished. NYM CRINKLE. FIRE AT BUFFALO. LOSS A QUARTER OF A MILLION!

BUFFALO, Nov. 8-9 P. M.
The grain elevator of the N. Y. Central R.
R. Co., was totally destroyed by fire at 11 o'clock last night. It contained over 200,000 bushels of grain all of which was destroyed. Loss on the building and machinery about $50,090; uninsured. Loss on grain over $200,000; fully insured. The extensive depot of company adjoining was but slightly damaged. Origin of fire unknown.

The Insurrectionists.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 8—9 P. M.

The excitement in regard to the trial of the Harper's Ferry conspirators, still continues, and fair progress is being made by the Court in the disposal of the cases.

The case of the free negro, Copeland, was brought to a close on Saturday afternoon, the jury finding a verdict of not guilty of treason, as charged in first count of the indictment. He not being recognized as a citizen, and guilty of conspiracy with slaves to rebel; and of murder, as charged in the second and third counts. The case was ably argued by Andrew Hunter on the part of the State; the prisoner was defended by Geo. Sennett of Boston. The Insurrectionists.

PROCLAMATION-THANKSGIVING. PROCLAMATION—THANKSGIVING.

ANOTHER YEAR, with its varied experiences and vicisitudes, has nearly gone, the weed time and harvest have passed away, and the products of the rarch more abundant and excellent, in many respects than usual, have been gathered in. Our State has been favored by an overruing Providence with exemption from pasticutes or any prevailing disease, and the commercial and financial distrass, under which our land has so long suffered, seems to be approaching an end. As a State we have been free from evil disturbances, and men lave gone about their daily avocations in peace and quietness. As a nation, too, we have been exempted from the scenes of blood which have been the result in other lands of the shock of contrading hosts.

It is right that we should, as a people, render the tribute of our thanks to the Author of all good, for the establishment and continuance of our free institutions, for the general health and prosperity of our people, for the bitssings of peace, for the privileges of free education, and freedom to worship fold according to the dictates of conscience, and for all the unnumbered ble-sings, individual and national, to bountfully show ered upon us.

Therefore, in accordance with the time-heared.

"Irrepressible Conflict." The subjoined article from a conservative American journal published in Wilmington, State of Delaware, a Slave State, the Delaware Republican, takes such a just and common sense view of what was said by Senator Saw-ARD, that an irrepressible conflict was going on between Slavery and Freedom, that we transfix it to the columns of the Advertiser. and recommend it to the consideration of such as take whatever is said by Senator SHWARL as wicked and revolutionary. "THE CONPLICT-WHICHSHALL TRIUMPH. -A great outcry was raised by the Democrats some months ago, because WM, H. SEW-ARD remarked that an irrepressible conflict was going on between slavery and freedom, and that one or the other would eventually triumph-that freedom or slavery would become universal in our country. A greater truth than this was never uttered. It matters not, what people may think or ray, this conflict between free and slave labor, is going on.

It has its origin in nature, and operates as certainly and as surely as any of the laws which govern our bodies. We cannot escape it if we would, so long as the power of locomotion, or freedom to remove from one pormotion, or freedom to remove from one pormotion and similar at regions and similar at remove from one pormotion and similar at remove from the paragon of western wits,) is inimitated to have a pormotion and similar at remove from th race. Life is a continual struggle. Men are forced to fight, as it were, for existence-to fight for food and clothing for their wives and little ones, and where the climate is congenial free labor is obtaining the mastery over slave labor, and the system of chattel slavery is dying out. This is the case in Delaware, iv. Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, or at least in some portion of each of them, and in the lapse of years it will become extinct. This is a fact, and whether it is a palatable or unpalatable one, it matters not. Whether popular or unpopular, it is all the same. The tide of population will roll on, the struggle for existence will be continued, and either white or slave labor will triumph. "While in the border States free labor is ariving out the slave, in South Carolina the slave is driving out white labor. In a census recently taken, it is shown that a large falling off of the white population has occurred within the last decade. The smaller farmers or planters, are selling out to the larger ones, and going forth to seek new homes in the new States, leaving old associations and old friends behind. This is the effect of the system of slavery-its tendency is to the centralization of property in few hands -Hence we find large plantations in the planting States, and few mechanics or laborers mong the whites. Population is sparse schools and places of worship are consequantly few. This may not be objectionable to a man of large means, who can send his •hildren away from home to be educatedbut it is to those who cannot afford to do so. Hence the poorer people move away to other States—many of them to free Sintes, and some of them become great Free Soilers, bitter opponents to the institution which drove them from the place of their birth. Every one must see that free and slave labor are at the case since the 5th inst, were 16, of which 5 three tracking the haring the harings report. direct antipodes, and that when Mr. SEWARD said an irrepressible conflict was going on betwa-n them, he only uttered a truth, which is as incontrovertible as that the earth itself

Resemblances between the Compositor Plot and the Harper's Ferry Plot.

History is full of resemblances. It is in teresting to note some points of similarity between the discovery of the plot to seize the Armory at Harper's Ferry, and that of the plot to blow up the British Parliament. Humz's History of England thus describes the warning given in the latter case :

The dreadful secret, though communicated to above twenty persons, had been religiously kept during the space of near a year and a half. Ten days before the nuce lag of Parisament, Lord Montengle, a catholic son of Lord Mortey, received the following letter which had been delivered to his servant by an unknown hand: which had been delivered to his servant by an unknown hand:

"MY Load: Out of the love I bear some of your friends, I have a care of your preservation. Therefore, I would advise you as you tender your life; to devise some excuse to shift of your attendance at this Farlianent. For Golf and man have conceived to punish the wickedness of this tlane. And think not slightly of this advertisement, but reture yourself into your country, where you may expect the event of safety. For though there be no appearance of any sir yet, I say, they will receive a terrible hior, this Perfiament, and yet they shall not see who hurst them. This counsel is not to be contained, because it may do you good, and can do you no harm; for the danger is passed as shon as you have burned the lotter, and I hope God will give you grace to make use of it, unto whose holy netection I commend you."

Monteagle knew root whete to make of the letter; and though inclined to think it a foelich attempt to frighten or reliable him, he judged it safe to carry it to ind Secretary of State.

It will be observed that the length of time.

A Young Man Kieled by the Cars .-A young man whose name is unknown, was run over by a train of cars on the Detroit and Milwaukee Railway, about five miles west of Milwaukee Railway, about five miles west of Linden, Genessee county, yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, and instantly killed.— The train was moving east, and running at its ordinary speed. The man had laid down upon the track, improvising a pillow out of his carpet-bag, and failen asleep. When the engineer discovered him he attempted to stop the train, but it was too late. The train passed over him, mangling his body terribly, and completely spiitting his head perpendicularly, throwing the face off by the side of the road, where it was subsequently discovered. The countenance was undisturbed, showing that death was so sudden as not even to arouse him from his sleep.—Detroit Free arouse him from his sleep.—Detroit Free Press, Nov. 6th.

THE RED RIVER VALLEY AS A FARMING COUNTRY—AN ABUNDANT HARVEST.—A correspondent of the Toronto Globe, writing from Red River Settlement, under date of September 20th, says:

Our harvesting is now over. The great work of the year in Red River colony is concluded, and farmers are rejoicing over an cluded, and farmers are rejoicing over an abundant harvest safely quartered. Strangers—visitors who came in by the last trip of the Anson Northrup—were astonished at the luxuriance which cheracterised our fields.—The size of the grain surprised them, but the length of the straw surprised them still more. They stated, what many before them have stated, that the wheat grown here would compare favorably with the best they ever saw in any country. We in Red River are Periament, and yet they shall not see who bares them. This counsel is not to be continued, because it may do you good, and can do you on harm; for the danger is passed as soon as you have burned the letter, and I hope God will give you greet to make use of it, uno whose holy potection from the danger is passed as soon as you have burned the letter; and I hope God will give you greet to make use you have burned the letter; and I hope God will give you are to make use you have burned the letter; and I hope God will give you greet to make use you have burned to relate the property of the for the for the first order this. It will be observed that the length of time while the plot was maturing, the number of persons engaged in it, and the anonymous warning sent to a Government officer, singularly coincide with the incidents of John Brown's Flot.

But here the parallel ends. Lord Montage and though he distrusted its authenticity, instantly took measures to d-text and suppress the Conspiracy. Secretary Flove, though he had a more explicit Letter, gives no warning and takes no steps to arrest the conspiratory, this difference of action?

Frauds in Preparing Hides, The purchasers of hides in New York and regard them with very little favor. A writer says:

So green and imperfectly cured are they—so overloaded with meat and sinews—that notwithstanding their other merits, they make dearer leather than any other hides with which we have to do. I have frequently stood by the beam and weighed eight, ten and twelve pounds of meat from each hide, as it came from the lash of these, Western hides. it came from the flesh of these Western hides. With this amount of fiesh on Western hides. With this amount of liesh on Western hides, it is no wonder that our tanners full to make more than fifty pounds of leather with one hundred pounds of cured hide; nor is it any wonder that Western hides have grown into distance.

Another form of curing likely to deceive is the practice of curing in vats. A strong solution of sait and water is prepared, and the hide immtersed for days, until, indeed, the hide becomes tanned in sait. It is then taken out, and after draining, spees through the form of helms sailed down with said and ken out, and after draining, goes through the form of being salted down with sand and salt, and is then rolled up to send to the New York market. This cure is very general throughout the south and southwest. Indeed, it is justified on the ground that in a very warm climate it is the only safe cure. Almost all the dry salted hides received from the south are first oured or tanned in vats with salt before they are dried, and, when cut with a knife, present the appearance and consistency of dried best, and are about as dry. So thoroughly disgusted have our tanners become at the deception practiced in the cure of these dry salted hides that they refuse to have anything to do with them; and refuse to have anything to do with them; and unless some of these distingest practices in the care of green hides are abandoned, the green hides of these localities will share the same fate.

But the whole of the dement attached to Western hides is not attributed to the parkers. The cure is defective. When the hide comes from the shoughter house, it should be properly cleared of horns, talk, ilesh, shouks. sinews, &c., and it would be all the better if the blood, monure, &a., are washed off. Af-ter being thus prepared, the hides should be ber being thus prepared, the hides should be salted on piles, flesh side up, and so placed as to give opportunity to the judes of the hide to pass off freely. If the hide is washed as above indicated, and when the waters and judes are thoroughly pressed out, the hide will in eming take aponly just so much salt as is necessary for preservation.

The practice of mixing sand with the salt is the first and meanest form of deception.

The sand finds its way into the hair after the salt is dissolved, and while the hide remains

And round thy throse the smiling hours
A thousand fragrant tributes bring,
Of golden fruits and blushing flowers.

A RAILROAD JOURNEY.

CHAPTER 1.

"Will you mind having the window up, old fellow?" said I to Charley Howard, one foggy afternoon as we were traveling down to Scotland together; "It is a precious raw day, this same 29th day of February repeated Charley, like a parrot, pansing with the window hali up in his hand; "is it possible?"

"Possible; albeit improbable, I admit, seeing it comes but once in our four years. But what on the earth is the matter with you, Charley? It is Leap-year, certainly, but what of that unless you have been trifling with the affections of some fair damsel who will pursue you to make you an offer, which she is entitled to do this year. Is she after you?—By Jove! I believe you are afraid she will come after you here."

"Fred," said Charley, in a subdued, quiet way, very unlike himself, for he is a noisy fellow; is Charley, six feet high, and always in the open air. I believe he thinks a house need only consist of a bed-room and dining hall, with perhaps a lean-to for a billiard table on a wet day. "You know I am not a hall, with perhaps a lean-to for a billiard ta-ble on a wet day. 'You know I am not a fellow to take nervous fancies into my head; don't laugh now, if I tell you a very strange thing that happened to me on this very line, four years ago this very day.'

'You nervous! Well, I should not have thought it, certainly although I wish you have "You nervous! Well, I should not have thought it, certainly, although I wish my best tles were ever as white as your blessed face is at this very moment. Go ahead, Charley! but 1-t me light my cigar to keep my spirits up; nothing like a story for sending a man to steep—particularly yours!—which last utterance was softo voce.

"Four years ago, to-day." began Charley, in such a solemn tone. Upon my life! I felt rather inclined to kick the fellow for making me feel drowsy before my time.—

"Four years ago, I was travelling on this very line, and as I wished to have a quiet smoke, I bribed the guard to lock me in a carriage by myself. I had performed about half the journey in much comfort when the train stonged at a traction states. had the journey in much comfort when the train stopped at a junction station about five o'clock in the afternoon. There was a good deal of a crowd on the platform, and, secure in the purchase I had made of the guard's for the train had started. She sat quite still with her veil down, and I began to wish very much to see her face. I noticed, how-

'Pm afraid, then, sir,' said she, that I am a most unwelcome intruder in your carriage, for I must have interfered with your smo-

As she spoke, she lifted the thick veil, and —upon my life! Fred, never saw so beautiful a face. It was a perfect oval, with heantifal soft brown eyes, very delicately traced eye brows above them, and long lashes that rested on her cheek when she looked down.

The only fault of her face was perhaps a want of color. Indeed, I have seldom had a more witty and intellectual companion. She could talk of every subject below the stars, and some beyond them. I can't talk to wo-men generally; for I can't pay compliments and never go to the opera. But this woman was reasonable as a man, while she was quick as a woman. It had meanwhile got dark, but there was a young moon, and by the uncertain light of a lamp, I could only see the soft outline of her figure and the dazzling whiteness of her face, supported by her hand on which I, for the first time, noticed a wedding ring; but to my surprise, the hand was ding ring; but to my surprise, the hand was streaked with blood. "Good gracious madam.

I am afraid you have hurt your hand," said I, starting forward.
"'I have not hurt it," she replied faintly,

There was such a rush of cold damp air over us; then we began to emerge, and I wonder-ed with a kind of childish speculation how soon, by the feeble moonlight. I should be said I, aloud, but there was no answer, and I shivered at the sound of my own voice 1 bent forward and felt over the seats. I could fed nothing there. I spollt match after match of my cigar lights, as I endeavored to make one burn. I thought we should never stop again; at last, however, we came to a station, and I hollo'ed to the guard to light the lamp. 'The door is not locked, after all your promises, said I to him, take it out

"the door is locked;" and he lighted the lamp from the toy.
"I was alone in the carriage. Good heavens!" said I, "where is the lady ?"
"The men stared at me: "I tell you there was a lady here," I repeated; "she must have got out in the tunnel."
"There was no lady sir," said the guard; but the porter, with a mysterious face, shook his head, and said, "Ah! you have seen her, too, sir, have you?"

"The train, however, went on at that me

"The train, however, went on at that moment, and I had no time to investigate the subject further. Well, Fred, what do you say? Don't think me mad, for it is true."

"Mad I certainly not, my dear fellow, only a little sleepy, as your most interesting story has made me."

Thus speaking, I wrapped myself well in my rug, as I naturally did not believe a word of the narrative with which my friend Charley had favored me.

CHAPTER IL.

I might have been asleep half an hour and more when I suddenly woke up, feeling thoroughly chilled and uneasy, and, looking up, saw Charley, who was sitting opposite me with such a look of terror and amazement on his pale face that I immediately put down my uneasy slumbers to his account.

quiet answer,

I was getting very uncomfortable; how was this! I know one often has a feeling when a thing takes place. I have felt this before. I know exactly what is going to happen next; but it was something more than that now. Was I dreaming? Money Matters.

The money market remains without any change of importance. The banks continue to funish all the currency needed for strictly legitimate business purceivency needed for strictly legitimate business purceiveness. currency needed for atrictly legitimate business par-poses at the legal rate of discount. Outside rates for money, nominally 1@2 per cent. a month. Exchange steady, selling at 1½ premium. Gold 1½ per cent.

steady, selling at 1½ premium. Gold 1½ per cent.

The Cincinnati Gaestie of Monday thus reports financial matters at that city:

There was a general complaint Saturday, of a scarcity of currency, and a though there was no increase in the demand for money, it was more difficult to obtain loans. Some of the larger houses did but little in the discounting line, and none of the institutions, per haps, were easy in the currency department. Still, there were no indications of a pressure, and the offerings of basis names, is outside citcles, were triding. A considerable smooth of currency has been sent into the country, within the last tew days.

The wheat market to-day was firmer and an in-The wheat market to-day was firmer and an interpretament of I cent established. There was not a very large business done, owing no doubt to the election, but the market closed fitting at 50% of fer No. 1 syring, 51c for No. 2, $100 for for fitting at the control of the part of the for Extra on the track. Not much done in flour and ices without material change. There were sales of a hundred barrels of Spring Extra at $4,50 for good rates on flour to Buffalo by Lake will be 40c, an adance of 10c. Dressed hogs ware dal and lower on of the bad weather for packing, and the very best did not sell for more than $5 per hundred.

The Beer Packing Season is now drawing to a close, and the product is going forward rapidly to Eastern and European markets. Last week our export of this article amounted to 2,817 barrels and 45 tierces, of which upwards of 2,000 barrels were shipped by the Detroit and Milwaukee Railway, nearly all for New York and Boston. Since the beginning of the present season we have shipped from this point nearly 10,600 barrels of beef, the great bulk of which has gone through the same channel, and the D. & M. scenners continue to take out 150 to 300 barrels at every departure. The two principal packing houses here, Messva. LATTON & PLANEISTON and E. Roddis, have slaughtered of cattle, or a thousand head in excess of the number slaughtered any previous season in this city. The total packing will doubtless be upwards of six thousand seven thousand. Milwaukee beef always commands ready sale and the highest prices in Eastern markets, and it justly enjoys a reputation second to none other packed in the West.

The Galette of Monany says:

In our general markets we notice continued mactively in flour, with dee dud firmness, however, on the part of holders. The business was small on Salurday, and confined to the local trade, at $1,000,100 for succession, and $4,000,820 for extra. The receipts are thereal. What was dull and heavy, and sake could not have been effected to any extent, except at a decline. A few transactions were reported at 105 for prime red, and 115 for do white. THE HARBOR AT GRAND MAYEN.-The work on the new pier being built by the D. & M. R. Co. at Grand Mayon has been suspended for this season, as it is found impracticable to Baish it, two of the pile drivers to Mr. Ridley, the contractor, is not less than $5,000.

The pler has been extended 1,550 feet, the storm has ing carried off about 150 feet. Up to the present date limited quantity of brush.

The Company propose next Spring adding to the Pier 500 feet beyond their original estimate, which will make the whole length 2,500 feet. This will terminate with a light-house. They also propose building anothor pier on the opposite side of the river, 3,000 feet long.

This will make a deep channel, and one of the safest harbors on the great hake coust. In this good work, evening has the following.

The tng Oasseyo has succeeded in getting the school or Chirmer off, which was reported ashore near Pois and Burque. She arrived here yesterday and williamediately go into dry dock for reunits. Capt. Kin but never fails in undertaking of this kind.
